THE COMMUNIST MANIFESTO

Karl Marx and Frederick Engels ← Introduction by Leon Trotsky

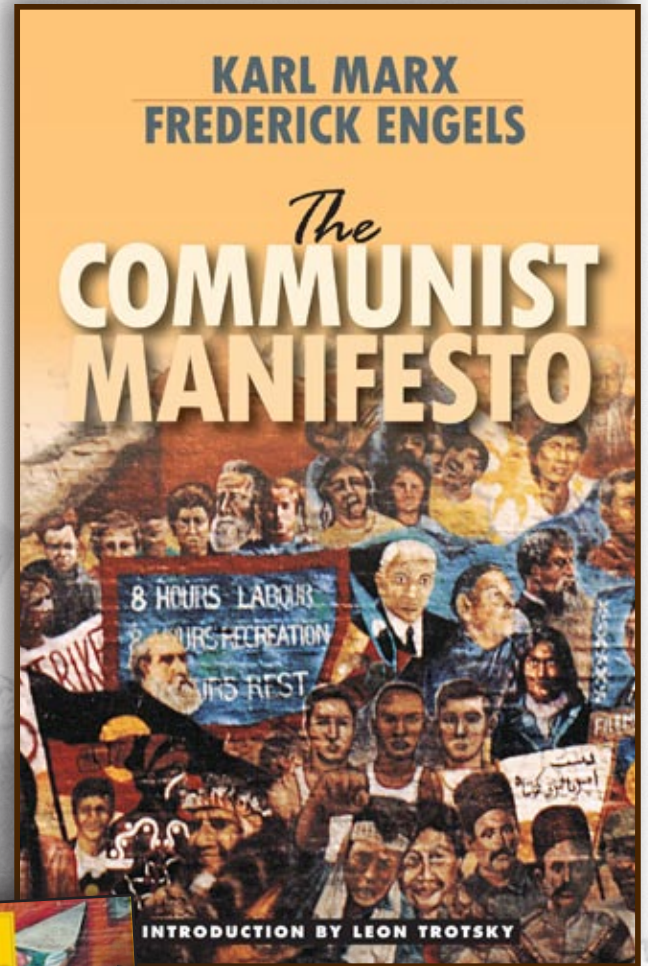

“The joint and rather brief production of two young authors still continues to give irreplaceable directives upon the most important and burning questions of the struggle for emancipation,” wrote Russian revolutionary leader Leon Trotsky in his 1937 introduction to the Communist Manifesto included in this Pathfinder edition.

Karl Marx and Frederick Engels explain why communism is not a set of preconceived principles but the line of march of the working class toward power, “springing from an existing class struggle, a historical movement going on under our very eyes.”

IDEAL FOR CLASSROOM USE

Pathfinder's Communist Manifesto features introductions by Marx, Engels, and Leon Trotsky; a comprehensive index; and notes explaining the events, individuals, and organizations referred to in the text. Editions in Spanish, French, Farsi, and Arabic are identical to the English, facilitating study by students whose first language is not English. Its easy-to-read page layout, attractive design, as well as its affordable $5.00 price make it especially useful for high school and college students.

Also available in Spanish, French, Farsi, and Arabic. Index, notes, 90 pp.
